

0.4 IBDP Chemistry Online Teacher (Remote)

| JOB OVERVIEW

Scotch Global (a sub-school of Scotch College Perth) is seeking an experienced IB Diploma Chemistry teacher to join our fully remote teaching team.

This is not a traditional classroom role. Teachers design and deliver high-quality learning through a combination of live collaborative sessions and structured independent work. The role requires clarity of thinking, strong communication, and the ability to engage students in an online environment.

We are looking for teachers who are confident in their practice, work well at pace, and are motivated to continually refine how they teach.

This is a permanent part-time position, commencing as soon as possible.

The successful candidate will bring:

- Experience teaching IBDP Chemistry at Higher Level (HL)
- Confidence teaching senior secondary Science (Years 11–12 essential), with a strong conceptual focus
- Strong digital capability and the ability to deliver clear, well-structured lessons in an online environment
- High-level communication and relational skills with students, families and colleagues
- The ability to work independently and contribute effectively within a collaborative team
- An adaptable, forward-thinking mindset suited to a developing programme
- The ability to use your experience to refine teaching practice and contribute to professional dialogue with colleagues

Why Scotch Global

Our teachers work in a collaborative remote environment where clarity, professionalism and accountability matter. Teachers are trusted to manage their practice and contribute to how the programme continues to develop. This includes the considered use of AI and a strong focus on media literacy, ensuring students engage critically and effectively with modern information environments and use the digital tools on hand to improve learning outcomes for all.

This offers the opportunity to:

- collaborate with experienced, high-performing educators to refine and articulate contemporary teaching practice

- contribute to a model of learning that is actively evolving beyond traditional structures
- engage in intellectually demanding work within a digitally enabled environment
- shape practice that informs thinking beyond the school context
- build a professional profile through sustained, high-quality contribution

About Scotch Global

Scotch Global is the online school of Scotch College Perth, drawing on over 127 years of educational experience while developing a modern approach to teaching and learning.

Launched in 2023, it delivers a fully remote programme for students across Australia and internationally, combining structured independent learning with live teaching across Years 3 to 12. Registered as one of only seven schools authorised to deliver the International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme online, demonstrates a recognition for the comprehensive structure that has been developed to provide a world class education within a digital learning environment.
